Adventure East, an outdoor tourism outfitter based in Sunderland, Massachusetts, is hosting Fall Foliage Paddles on Sunday, November 7, 2021, and Sunday, November 14, 2021. These tours are an excellent activity for friends, families, groups, and couples. Led by experienced guides, these tours make getting out onto the Connecticut River more accessible for those without extensive experience or gear of their own.

Local resident, Chelsea Swasey attended a recent Sunday Paddle and shared “The Sunday paddle was awesome. The guides were simply my favorite part, they were funny, outgoing, and seemed like it wasn’t my first time meeting them. It was also a nice way to get fresh air and to see our hometowns in a different perspective.”

William Mullin, another recent Sunday paddler with Adventure East shared, “The two guides were very knowledgeable and gave a lot of good kayaking tips. We even had interesting conversations while paddling.”

Brad Walker, Adventure East Paddling Coordinator and Guide, shared about his latest expedition with a group of paddlers on a Fall Foliage Paddle, “Despite reports of ‘no fall colors’ we had a great time showing folks from across the country some beautiful (and colorful) sights along the CT River. One of my favorite things is to spot bald eagles newly exposed in the trees while the leaves drift down and float with us.”

Walker also shared his enthusiasm about continuing paddling adventures during the cold season, “We are excited to show off a phenomenon that is unique to dam-controlled rivers around the winter season: miles-long strings of ice ‘pearls’ and other amazing ice formations—you’ll have to join us for a paddle to see it yourself.”
